The more items you accumulate, the more you can donate and receive a lump sum. This is a great commodity that can be used now or in the near future. If you have old books, magazines, laptops, tablets, games, cell phones & video games that are stored and accumulating dust, why not sell your old items and start accumulating cash ASAP! This could be great for a part-time income. You can sell your items in person or by U.S. mail with a pre-paid shipping label at their expense.

They purchase all name brand items from the Good old days all the way up to a young man holding his pants up with one hand and a controller for X Box 360 in the other hand. Poor belt industry! They are having a financial meltdown! 😊 On trash day, if you acknowledge a lot of old books, games, music, and electronics that have been left out by your neighbors for pick-up, start collecting and storing items in a shed or storage area.
